

Dr. Ben Earwicker served as a faculty member and administrator at universities in the U.S. and New Zealand for 13 years and now serves as Director of the Idaho Human Rights Commission. Prior to this, Ben worked as a social worker for the State of Idaho and the Idaho Migrant Council and ran a successful small business for 10 years. He owns and operates a virtual, online mediation company, the Mediation Network of North America and virtualmediation.org. In addition to his Masters degree and Ph.D. from New Zealand's University of Otago, Ben will graduate in December with a J.D. from the University of Idaho College of Law. He currently manages dual enrollment modern language and social science courses throughout Washington, Oregon, and Idaho, while working with the Idaho Human Rights Commission to enforce state and federal anti-discrimination laws and promote human and civil rights in Idaho.
